Wine Broker/Trading Manager - Next Generation

An innovative technology company, VINEX (www.vinex.market) requires the services of a self-motivated wine professional with current wine broking or trading experience. You will have excellent technical wine knowledge, industry relationships and bulk wine commercial trading experience, with an interest in how technology can connect and advance the trade of wine parcels.

VINEX is a global wine trading exchange based in London with members from 47 countries trading wines (grapes and associated grape derived products). In addition to connecting the market, VINEX publishes market analysis and insights, and provides a range of industry tools and calculators.

Covering the Australian wine regions, you will be joining a young and dynamic team in a senior role that requires excellent interpersonal skills with winemaking, broking and/or trading experience to promote and facilitate wine and grape trades through the exchange. The role is full time. Along with autonomy, travel and responsibility for business development, there is an opportunity to be very well rewarded for making a solid contribution to the company's goals.

You must be prepared to travel extensively, thrive on direct customer interaction and pride yourself in the delivery of service excellence. Excellent remuneration is available, plus a generous performance bonus scheme.

All inquiries will be treated with strict confidence. Thank you for considering this role.

Please email applications by Friday 19 January 2018.
